

The Stanley Works Added to MyPrint's Client Roster

Global Retail Leader Joins Elite Lineup of Organizations Utilizing eTools Solution

(IRVINE, Calif., June 21, 2006) – MyPrint Corporation today announced that The Stanley Works, the leading global supplier of tools, hardware and security solutions for professional, industrial and consumer use, has implemented eTools, MyPrint Corporation's proprietary, award-winning software application. The eTools solution will streamline the production of customized stationery materials for thousands of The Stanley Works field representatives.

The Stanley Works users across North America will be able to access, edit and order more than 50 different types of stationery products via a secure web portal. The eTools print-on-demand model allows orders to be placed securely, efficiently and cost-effectively online utilizing a print-on-demand model.

eTools allows each The Stanley Works field representative to determine the appropriate quantity, delivery schedule and delivery method of customized stationery materials according to individual needs. The solution's integrated accounting and reporting features allows The Stanley Works corporate managers to maintain strict controls, while providing field representatives flexibility in ordering products.

“The eTools customer base now includes leading corporations in industries ranging from entertainment to banking to education,” said Kent Barkouras, CEO of MyPrint. “Adding The Stanley Works to our client roster is a terrific win for MyPrint. As, a retail giant, The Stanley Works further demonstrates both the broad range of industries that eTools impacts and the size and quality of companies that are recognizing the eTools advantage.”
