

SanJuanCapistranoPatch

Editor Jenna Chandler: Heard some news you want us to check out? Let me know: Jenna.Chandler@patch.com

The Neighborhood Files, Local Connections

Capistrano Cancer Survivor Inspired at Komen Race

September 25, 2011 Print

2 Comments

One person likes this.

Email

Tweet

Flag as inappropriate

2 of 8

San Juan Capistrano resident Angela Robinson, left, hugs a fellow participant in the 20th annual Susan G. Komen Orange County Race for the Cure. Credit Angela Robinson

Photos

+ Add your photos & videos

One year ago, San Juan Capistrano resident Angela Robinson was diagnosed with Stage 3 breast cancer. She had a 20 percent chance of survival.

Now in remission, on Sunday, she and more than 20,000 others completed the 20th annual Susan G. Komen Orange County Race for the Cure in Newport Beach.

"It was heartfelt, inspiring and rewarding," she said.

Robinson organized a team named the Chemo Room Groupies comprised of family and friends and patients from her Mission Viejo-based oncologist's office.

"We truly need a world without breast cancer," she said.

READ ROBINSON'S CANCER STORY: No Funeral for Mom Who's Beating Breast Cancer

The 20th annual Susan G. Komen Orange County Race for the Cure on Sunday in Newport Beach. Credit: Angela Robinson

'The Chemo Room Groupies,' a team organized by San Juan Capistrano Angela Robinson, participate in the 20th annual Susan G. Komen Orange County Race for the Cure. Credit: Angela Robinson

San Juan Capistrano resident Angela Robinson at the 20th annual Susan G. Komen Orange County Race for the Cure. Credit: Angela Robinson

'The Chemo Room Groupies,' a team organized by San Juan Capistrano Angela Robinson, participate in the 20th annual Susan G. Komen Orange County Race for the Cure. Credit: Angela Robinson

San Juan Capistrano resident Angela Robinson, center, with her husband Dave on Sunday at the 20th annual Susan G. Komen Orange County Race for the Cure. Credit: Angela Robinson